What Are The Biggest Career Mistakes To Avoid?

#1. Aiming too low. Whether it's salary, title, or type of company, people are too intimidated by interviewers, scared of asking for what they want at every stage of the interview process, and suffer from imposter syndrome.

#2. Saying no to yourself. Because you feel that you lack the "qualifications" the job description asks for, you end up not going for the opportunity. This continued lack of self-confidence through self-discrimination, combined with the obsession of fulfilling requirements down to the last drop, handicaps good professionals from achieving career greatness.
