How to Work With Recruiters to Win Your Next Job

Finding and collaborating with recruiters will help you get ahead.

Recruiters play a unique role in any company's hiring process. They are hired to find talent that a company can't find for itself and, in a sense, the candidates they provide for consideration are their "inventory." On the other hand, the more the candidate commands in terms of starting salary, the greater their commission.

From the job hunter's perspective, being recruited can be viewed as validation of one's worth, and it can certainly make the hiring process run smoother than having to take the normal route of endless networking, applying online and hoping to get some traction.
